The Comptroller, in reviewing the returns of each com-secunt of each and let the same accompany this statement?"

The Comptroller, in reviewing the returns of each company, says:—

The establishment of joint stock, or proprietory insurance companies, as they were originally named, is of comparative recent date in this State, and, I may say, country. This description of business was originally confined to individuals under the name of underwriters. The formation of the individuals engaged in this pursuit into joint stock companies began in this State about the year 1800, by special charter. One object to be obtained by the corporators was undoubtedly to escape the individual liability under which they labored, in this method of prosecuting the business, provious to that time; another, as the commerce and wealth of the country increased, the demand for assurance, as it was then termed, became so extensive that it in a measure compelled a system of associating capital, is such a manner as to allow those of smaller means to combine with the elass of men engaged in this pursuit, and participate in the profits of the transactions, while it relieved both parties from a loss that would be runous, by contining it to the capital thus associated. A corporation thus formed, with a limited amount of capital, which, when once lost, leaves no remedy for the party whose property is insured, if a loss takes place, cannot be viewed in any other light, (based as all insurance is upon the doctrine of chances,) than as simply conferring an unlimited power to make money, without corresponding liabilities on the part of the corporators—in other words, to lay a wager with individuals who choose to make one to an aggregated amount, (upon a contingency which may arise, viz.: a loss upon the property insured) which is entirely unlimited, and without reference to the amount for which the corporators were liable in their associated expacity. This system was considered so sure, as an investment—the dectrine of chances, based upon exportance, being in farmachical certainty. The highest tribunal mellowed the remembrance of that terrible infliction. It was, in my opinion, one-of the principal causes, from the difficulties arising, and the effects produced in this State by that fire, which led to the extensive formation of mutual insurance companies in the interior counties of this State. As an evidence of this, look at the legislation in mediately previous and after that event. During the sitting of the Legislature in the winter of 1835 but five insurance companies were chartered, of which one or two only were new companies, and the others were remewals of their privileges. One of these companies—the Washington County Mutual, I think—was the second mutual company chartered by this State. The winter of 1836, immediately following the great fire in New York, over fifty new companies were chartered, one-half of which were mutual companies. d the remembrance of that terrible infliction. By offour and gonn meal remained as last moticed. Sales have been effected of 2,000 bushels poor Southern white wheat, at $1.65; 16,000 bushels rye, at $1, and 62,000 bushels acro, closing at 77c. a $1c., per Sushel—the movements in the two laster kinds of grain indicating a better market therefor.

Dornon.—The day's sales embraced 960 bales, as follows:—For export, $28; home use, $46; and on speculation, 231. Market firm.

Fact:—About 460 boxes bunch raisins brought $2.90 a $3.10. Other articles were quict and romewhat nominal.

Figuriary.—About 20,000 a $25.00 bushels corn, in bulk and ship's bags, were engaged at 13d. a 13%d. $00 bblis.

Sour, at 4½d.; and 200 boxes bacon, at 43s. 6d. Cotton was at ½d. a 11-10d. asked. To California rates were dull, at 45c. a 55c. per foot, with little offering. There was nothing new to London or Havre. To the latter flour was nominal at 95c. wheat at 24c.; ashes at $10 a $12, and rice at $12. A vessel was engaged to load at Sagua La Grande for New York, at 58c. per 100 lbs.

HAY.—Frime was in livelier demand, at 68c. a 75c. for shipment, and 75c. a 82½c. for local use, per 100 lbs.

HAY.—Holders asked $6 75 for Spanish, $7 for English, and $7 25 for Galena, per 100 lbs., but cannot obtain these rates freely.

LIME.—Rockland was actively sought after, at $1 15 for common, and $1 40 for lump, per bbl.

LEADETE.—The stock on hand of every description is remarkably small, and the market is entirely bare of some kinds. For light weights and damaged sole leather there was a brisk demand, which dealers were unable to supply. Notwithstanding this, prices were weak, and buyers found a willing disposition among the dealers to accede to a lower scale of prices than existed a few weeks since, when they were about $10 10 per cent above the present rates. This change may be accounted for, in part, by the sudden check and fail in the price of hider—wiz, from 23c. to 20½c. on Orinoce hides. A reaction, however, may as suddenly take place, inasmuch as the stocks of hides and leather are both light, whilst the spring demand for hides has not yet taken place. Some shipments of heavy sole have taken place for England within a few days, and parties have in contemplation to make large shipments to England and the continent, should the trade evince a disposition to favor them in prices. The following list shows the prices current for the present week.—Light weights hemlock sole, 22c. a 24c. per lb.; middle do. do., 21½c. a 23c.; over do. do., 019c. a 22c.; damaged do. Provisions.—Pork was rather heavy. The day's sales included 380 bbls. new, at $15 433′a $15 50 for mess, and $13 for prime, per bbl.
